Directors of Project Management and Finance Join Management Team at Fresh Coast Capital; Company Offers Full Turnkey Revitalization Services

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS – Chicago-based project developer Fresh Coast Capital announced two new additions to their management team. “With the addition of Michael Park as the Director of Project Finance and Jake Felton as the Director of Project Management, we have expanded our capacity to revitalize communities and their environments with innovative financing solutions,” said CEO and co-founder, Nicole Chavas. Fresh Coast offers turnkey community-driven partnerships with cities to design, build, finance, operate, and maintain green infrastructure for revitalization and reinvestment. The firm currently operates in eight cities.

Michael Park will serve as the Director of Project Finance overseeing project financial structuring and will join the firm’s management team. Michael brings to Fresh Coast Capital a career with extensive experience in transactional finance and investments spanning project finance, energy finance, commercial banking, and tax credit finance. Most recently, Michael served as part of the executive team for a tech-enabled financial services startup where he managed the capital supplier relationships and commercial lending operations. Previously, Michael has worked at the United States Department of Energy (DOE) where he performed due diligence for more than $9 billion of first-of-kind energy project finance transactions. Michael has also worked at the National Cooperative Bank (NCB), Overseas Private Investment Corporation, Citibank, and the Corporate Finance Institute.

Jake Felton will serve as the Director of Project Management overseeing the team that works with clients to design, build, operate, and maintain projects and programs. In this role, Jake will also join the firm's management team. Jake brings deep experience in program management and construction management from large national consulting and construction firms. Prior to Fresh Coast Capital, Jake was a state director for a rapid-growth program delivery consulting firm in the energy sector. Jake has also worked for Kiewit Corporation and other general contracting and project engineering firms supporting management activities for infrastructure construction projects, with direct field experience in water, wastewater, and underground utilities.

Fresh Coast Capital is a project developer and impact investment firm with a mission to revitalize disinvested communities with green infrastructure and creative investment solutions.
